WHOLE NO. 1421

Twenty-five thousand copies have been sold in one month of the special paper edition of . . .

AN ARKANSAS PLANTER,

BY OPIE READ.

An "Arkansas Planter" is a book teeming with incidents of a most romantic nature. It mirrors a phase of life but little known in the North, and embodies a description of employments and conditions as novel as interesting. In no former book has Mr. Read furnished as abundant proofs of his artist claim, and none is so consistent, so "convincing" as this.

"May be pronounced a decided success."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"An unusually strong piece of writing."—Denver News.

"Its humorous and pathetic aspects are everywhere visible, and many bits of quaint and homely philosophy are scattered through its chapters."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Opie Read is to the Middle West what Bret Harte once was to the Pacific Coast."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Issued in the ORIENTAL LIBRARY, paper binding, 25 cents.

OTHER POPULAR COPYRIGHTED BOOKS IN PAPER. TOLD IN THE HILLS.

By MARAH ELLIS RYAN, author of "A Pagan of the Alleghanies," "Squaw Elouise," "In Love's Domains," etc.

"A book that is more than clever. It is healthy, brave, and inspiring."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"The character of Stuart is one of the finest which have been drawn by an American woman in many a day, and it is depicted with an appreciation hardly to be expected even from a man."—Boston Herald.

CHECKED THROUGH.

By Col. RICHARD HENRY SAVAGE, author of "My Official Wife," "In the Swim," "A Modern Corsair," etc.

"Is a vivid, exciting story, full of vigor and character, skilfully conceived and carefully carried through from the first page to the last."—Bookseller, London.

DEVIL'S DICE.

By WILLIAM LE QUEUX, author of "Whoso Findeth a Wife," "Zoraida," etc.

"A good story of mystery has always been legal tender in the literary world, and this new story from the prolific pen of Mr. Le Queux is made of the genuine stuff."—Chicago Tribune.

All of the above published in the ORIENTAL LIBRARY, 25 cents each.

Important Facts About Bibles.

Notwithstanding the many different editions of the Holy Bible published, there are probably no others so well known, so popular, or which give such general satisfaction to their purchasers as those published by the old-established firm of Holman.

There is a certain individuality in the character and finish of the Holman Bibles not attained in other editions. This result is gained only by the use of the choicest materials obtainable, the employment of skilled labor only, and a knowledge and grasp of the needs of the Bible-buying public acquired in the experience of a successive business career of nearly 100 years.

Of the more recent editions issued by this house especial mention should be given the NEW INDIA PAPER EDITIONS of the Holman Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bible, which are beautifully printed on an entirely new India Paper made especially for them. The exclusive features of this paper are wonderful opacity, marvellous thinness, beautiful color-tone, and strength and durability. A remarkable fact concerning this paper, and not the least important by any means, is that, while it bulks but $\frac{5}{8}$ of one inch to 1000 pages, the printing on one side does not show through to the other. These editions are bound in beautiful Moroccos Sealskins, etc., with overlapping edges and the accompanying fine essential finishes.

Among other editions of the Holman Pronouncing Teachers' Bible of particular interest to Bible buyers are the HILPRECHT EDITIONS, which contain, in addition to the Old and New Testaments and the Helps usually to be found in a Teachers' Bible, a Series of Exclusive Illustrations (Copyrighted by A. J. Holman & Co.) of recent Archæological Discoveries in Babylonia, Egypt, and Asia Minor, showing excavations, sarcophagi, obelisks, tablets, and other objects, with inscriptions and works of art, dating back to the early history of the human race, and in a most remarkable manner confirming many of the historical statements of the Scriptures. The illustrations are described and arranged by Prof. H. V. Hilprecht, the Eminent Assyriologist. These editions are to be had in a variety of styles in bindings and prices.

The NEW PICTORIAL EDITION, embellished with eighty full-page photo views of Bible Lands distributed throughout the text, is made in a variety of new, beautiful, and unique bindings, and is sold at reasonable prices. This is the only Pictorial Teachers' Bible published.

The LOW PRICE EDITIONS are beyond question the very best cheap Bibles published, and to those desiring a dependable low-price Bible of merit this edition is especially recommended.

The DEVOTIONAL BIBLE is an "Ideal Bible" for the family circle. Large type, yet small and compact in size. An indispensable book in the conduct of family worship.

The HOLMAN FAMILY BIBLES have been greatly improved for this season by the addition of numerous new collateral features, new electrotype plates, new and original cover designs, made especially for them, etc., etc. Over 100 styles at prices from $1.65 to $40.00 are offered in this line.

TESTAMENTS, PRAYER-BOOKS, DEVOTIONAL BOOKS, etc., are also to be had in great variety.

An Illustrated and Descriptive Catalogue, and any information desired, will be promptly sent upon request to

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready in their International Education Series "Education by Development," by Friedrich Froebel, translated by Josephine Jarvis, consisting of essays on the training school for kindergartners, and plans for introducing children's gardens into the schools; also, "Paul Carah, Cornishman," by Charles Lee, a fresh and charming story of one of nature's beautiful spots, with a plot showing invention and a style of marked literary merit.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. have almost ready "Can We Disarm?" by Joseph McCabe, who does not advocate immediate disarmament, and sees very clearly the difficulties which stand in the way of such a Utopian proposition, yet sees also that the world is working towards this millennium and analyzes very clearly the forces which tend in that direction. It is a book that aims to teach something to the general public which is interested in the Czar's plan from the outside.

JOHN JOSEPH McVEY, Philadelphia, has just issued the second part of "Exposition of Christian Doctrine," by a Seminary Professor, dealing with Moral, as the first part dealt with Dogma, the two forming an intermediate course of religious instruction in the Catholic faith, prepared under the approval of the Pope for the Institute of the Brothers of the Christian Schools. The new volume specially covers the "principles of human acts, the commandments of God and of the Church, the beatitudes and the Evangelical Counsels."

HARPER & BROTHERS have just issued the thirteenth and last volume of the Biographical edition of Thackeray, comprising "Ballads, Critical Reviews, Tales, Various Essays, Letters, Sketches, etc.," with thirty-five full-page illustrations by the author, George Cruikshank, and John Leech, thirty-five woodcuts, three portraits of Thackeray's ancestors, and an engraving of himself. They have also just ready "Danish Fairy and Folk Tales," translated by J. Christian Bay, and profusely illustrated; and "Fur and Feather Tales," by Hamblen Sears, five narrative stories of personal experiences in different kinds of hunting and shooting.

THE MACMILLAN Co. have just ready "The Philippine Islands and Round About," by Major G. J. Younghusband, who reached Manila on the eve of its capture by the United States, and consequently takes up the account of the islands from the point where Professor Worcester left it. Also very nearly ready for issue are "The Making of Hawaii," by William Fremont Blackman, of Yale University; and "The Student's Life of Paul," by George Holley Gilbert, of the Chicago Theological Seminary. For the fall this house promises a new novel of Kentucky life, by James Lane Allen, to be entitled "The Mettle of the Pasture," which the author considers his most important contribution to literature. The title is taken from the lines in Shakespeare's "Henry v.," "And you, good yeomen, whose limbs were made in England, show us here the mettle of your pasture."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready "James Russell Lowell and His Friends," by Edward Everett Hale, with all the portraits and illustrations so eagerly looked for while the text was publishing in The Outlook. Dr. Hale was in college with Lowell and looks upon the last fifty years of life in New England from the standpoint of the contemporaries with whose lives he came in close touch while they were laying the foundations of American literature. They have also put upon the market this week a new Memorial edition of "Poems" by Henry Timrod, one of the foremost poets of the South, who died in 1867, and to whom a worthy monument is to be erected from the profits of the book; "The Complete Poetical Works of John Milton" in the Cambridge edition, with biography, introductions, annotations, etc., by William Vaughn Moody; "The Ladder of Fortune," a novel of Western American and Parisian life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor; "Through Nature to God," by John Fiske, a companion volume to his excellent "The Idea of God" and "The Destiny of Man;" and four new volumes in the Riverside Paper Series: Bynner's "Damen's Ghost;" Helen Campbell's "Under Green Apple Boughs;" Witherspoon's "Doctor Bar;" and Alice Brown's "Fools of Nature."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted: if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl. mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Arnold, Matthew. Sohrab and Rustum, and other poems; ed. by Louise Imogen Guiney. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. 16°, (Riverside lit. ser., no. 133.) pap., net, 15 c.

Atherton, Mrs. Gertrude Franklin, ["Frank Lin," pseud.] A daughter of the vine. N. Y., J. Lane, 1899. c. 3-300 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

[1255]

The father of the heroine is represented as a former boon companion of Branwell Brontë, the ill-fated brother of Charlotte Brontë. While under the influence of liquor he marries an ignorant barmaid. To hide his social downfall he gives up his home in Yorkshire and comes to America, finally settling in San Francisco in the forties. With such a father and mother Nina Randolph is far from being a normal girl. The part heredity plays in her story, particularly in a love affair with a young Englishman, is painfully depicted.

Austin, Mrs. Jane Goodwin. Betty Alden. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. 16°, (Riverside pap. ser.) pap, 50 c.

Awdry, Mrs. W. Early chapters in science: a first book of knowledge of natural history, botany, physics, and chemistry, for young people; ed. by W. F. Barrett. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1899. 18+348 p. D. cl., $2.

The object is to provide young people, especially the junior classes in schools, with an introduction to the two great divisions of science—biological and experimental—to the "World of life" and the "World of experiment." The first part of the book teaches the boy or girl to observe, the second part to question nature. Whilst the young reader is throughout led to feel he is still on the threshold of scientific knowledge, the aim has been to make the work accurate as far as it goes.

Baylor, Frances Courtenay. The ladder of fortune. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 2+352 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The son of a California miner climbs the ladder of fortune, and marries a woman who has the skill to spend a sufficient part of what he wins. She is ambitious to gain a footing in showy society, which she esteems as good society. Her husband is indifferent to social position, but performs what many regard as the first duty of man, by being "a good provider" of money for his family. The scene of the story is partly in Western America, partly in Paris.

essays, class poems, ivy orations, toasts; also original speeches and addresses for the national holidays and other occasions. N. Y., Hinds & Noble, [1899.] c. '98. 14+426 p. O. cl., $1.50. [1273]

The chief object of this book is to place before the student such models as will prompt to special effort in the preparation and delivery of his own speeches. It will be found useful, however, to individuals in every walk of life who have occasion to "take the floor" for any purpose. It is an interesting compilation of the commencement season; of orations, addresses, poems, etc., delivered by college men on many occasions, such as the banquet, the class reunion, the inauguration of a president, etc.; also specimen essays and compositions that have won prizes at school and college.

Dudeney, Mrs. H: The maternity of Harriott Wicken. N. Y., The Macmillan Co., 1899. c. 2+320 p. D. cl., $1.50. [1276]

Harriott Wicken comes into the world with a terrible inheritance. She lives her young life with her aunt and uncle, believing herself to be their daughter. When a chance comes for her to marry her story must be told. In spite of it Daniel Darnell, a young Londoner of means, marries her. Their first child, a little girl, is an idiot. Around this child the story revolves. Harriott's unnatural hatred for it, and her desire to get rid of it, results in many repulsive episodes.

*Erwin, Frank Alexander. A summary of torts. [N. Y., F. A. Erwin,] 1899. c. 7+159 p. O. cl., $2. [1279]

Author is professor of law in N. Y. University.

Farquhar, Anna. The professor's daughter. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 3-324 p. O. cl., $1.25. [1280]

The scene is a Rhode Island seacoast. An old professor and his daughter, whose eyes have suffered in close attendance upon his book researches, go there to recruit. The girl changes from "a woman of bones, covered with spirit instead of flesh," into the heroine of a love-story, in which natural scenery is delightfully described.

Fiske, J: Through nature to God. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 15+194 p. S. cl., $1. [1281]

This little book is the natural sequel to two previous works of Mr. Fiske—"The idea of God, as effected by modern knowledge," and "The destiny of man, viewed in the light of his origin." It seeks "to solve the tremendous mystery of evil so as to give man a fuller sense of his high calling and a firmer assurance of the infinite wisdom and benignity." It shows the range and power of love and self-sacrifice, and emphasizes the religious lesson which nature teaches.

Froebel, F: Friedrich Froebel's education by development: the second part of "The pedagogics of the kindergarten"; tr. by Josephine Davis. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 26+347 p. D. (International education ser., no. 44.) cl., $1.50. [1282]

In a former volume (no. 30 of this series) nearly one-half of the essays brought together by Wichard Lange in a volume entitled "The pedagogics of the kindergarten" have already been printed. Those essays relate more especially to the plays and games. In the present volume the educational principles underlying the gifts are more thoroughly discussed. Again and again Froebel goes over his theory of the meaning of the ball, the sphere, the cube, and its various subdivisions.

Frommel, Emil. Eingeschnitten: eine studentengeschichte; with introd., notes, and vocabulary, by W. Bernhardt. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1899. c. 8+114 p. pors. S. (Heath's modern language ser.) cl., 30 c. [1283]

Grundtvig, Svend, Kristensen, E. T., Bondesen, Ingvor, and Budde, L. Danish fairy and folk tales: a collection of popular stories and fairy tales; from the Danish by J. Christian Bay. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 11+293 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [1287]

A collection of forty-eight fairy and folk tales from the Danish. They are told in the quaint style of Andersen and the Grimms. Here and there in the volume one recognizes an old friend, though the language and the material used are new.

Hale, E: Everett. James Russell Lowell and his friends. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. '98. 8+301 p. pors. facsimiles, il. O. cl., $3. [1288]

Dr. Hale was in college with Lowell, and they were intimate friends. Their lives were very different, but Dr. Hale lived in the same surroundings in which Lowell spent most of his life, so that he has personal recollections of the people, the places, and the affairs in which Lowell was himself largely engaged. Lowell is, of course, the hero of the book, which contains a brief review of the last fifty years in Eastern New England, from a point of view not unlike that which Lowell himself would have taken.

Harrison, Mrs. Constance Cary, [Mrs. Burton Harrison.] A triple entanglement. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 2-272 p. il. D. buckram, $1.25. [1291]

The characters are Mrs. Wallis and her son Stuart (rich Americans), General Severn, an English retired army officer, and his granddaughter Enid, studying art, and Mrs. Sutton, a rich English widow whose husband had been in trade, and her adopted son Algeron, an American born, with great personal beauty and a great lack of principle. These people are travelling in Europe, where they all meet by accident; love is the motive power which draws the young people together.

Hewlett, Maurice. Pan and the young shepherd: a pastoral in two acts. N. Y., J. Lane, 1899. c. 8+140 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1292]

The love-story of the young shepherd Neanias, who finds his mate in Aglaë, one of the daughters of earth. The pastoral is in dramatic form, the actors being shepherds, rustics, daughters of earth, and the god Pan.

- Hinsdale, Rev. Burke Aaron. The old north-west, the beginnings of our colonial system. Bost., Silver, Burdett & Co., 1899. c. 430 p. 8°, cl., $2.50. [1294]
- Hollander, J. H. The financial history of Baltimore. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1899. c. 16+397 p. O. cl., net, $2. [1295]
- While primarily of local interest, the book appeals to all students of local finance who will recognize many phases of the experience of Baltimore as typical of the American city. The author traces in detail the development of municipal expenditure, revenue, indebtedness and financial administration through the several periods of pre-corporate and corporate history. It has been found desirable to make use almost exclusively of original sources, and to emphasize the influence of administrative change upon fiscal growth. The narrative proper is supplemented by critical comment and constructive suggestion. The work is fully equipped with the requisite statistical appendices. Bibliographical note (2 p.).

- A picture of life in the Cornish village of Porthvean, told largely in dialect. Paul Carah is a Cornishman returned from a residence of seven years in America to his native town; he stays there six months, creating more excitement than the little place has known in as many years. The author has made a careful character study of Paul, the boasting, scheming Cornishman who comes to conquer Porthvean.

"This little sketch of my father's life has been attempted at the wish not only of many personal friends, but also of some who have only known him through the 'Golden treasury,' or his hymns. It has been greatly aided by his own journals, which are quoted at some length, for in them he speaks for himself, expressing many thoughts and opinions which could not otherwise have been so plainly given. . . . I have tried to show my father both as a man of true poetical feeling, possessed of the purest taste in art and literature, and also as one who was loved by an almost infinite number of friends. . . ."—Preface.

Though the author has not hesitated to criticize Protestant theology frankly and fearlessly, his words have been dictated by no unfriendly spirit, but, on the contrary, by a deep and loving sympathy. It had been his aim to avoid controversy; to show that church doctrines, apart from those exaggerations which challenge controversy, are really Bible truths. In the chapters on "Apostolic succession" and "Christian sacerdotalism" he has followed, sometimes quite closely, the line of thought marked out by Canon Moberly in his work on "Ministerial priesthood."

- Sears, Hamblen. Fur and feather tales; il. by Frost, Tavernier, and Jaccaci. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 5+216 p. O. cl., $1.75. [1337]
These "tales" consist of five narrative stories of personal experiences in different kinds of hunting and shooting. They are simple, straightforward accounts of pleasant trips after game birds along the United States coast, after big game in Norway, Canada, and France, and upland birds on a preserve. It is evidently the purpose of the book to express what has long been a familiar truth to sportsmen, but not perhaps so well understood by others, that the mere securing of a specified number of birds or beasts, the actual killing of numbers of animals, plays a very small part in a sportsman's life.

Stead, W: T. The United States of Europe on the eve of the parliament of peace. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 12+468 p. pors. il. O. cl., $2.

The author, who is the editor of the English Review of Reviews, has lately returned from a trip to all the capitals of Europe, where he has talked with the important men of each country, from the Czar of Russia down, on the question of a possible "United States of Europe." In his book he gives the views of the statesmen of the old world on the political situation of 1899, in the light of the Czar's Peace Rescript and of American "Expansion." Besides treating of America's task in the West Indies and Philippines, the "Chinese Puzzle," South African problems, the Fashoda muddle, the Concert of Europe and its work in Crete and Candia, and many other matters of current interest, Mr. Stead forecasts very interestingly the immediate political future. More than a hundred portraits, views, and maps illustrate the volume.

This work is neither apologetic nor controversial. It seeks to expound, not to defend. It sets forth, in systematic form, the doctrinal contents of the New Testament according to its natural divisions. The general method pursued is that which is now common in this branch of theological science. Brief explanations of the mode of treating certain portions of the New Testament, with respect to which important critical differences exist among scholars, are given in the chapters introductory to the several parts of the work. There is a select bibliography (4 p.), which comprises the most important recent literature of the subject. Author is Dwight professor of systematic theology in Yale University.

[1345]

This is the first published set of woodcuts by the artist who has made his reputation as an etcher. The twelve original wood engravings illustrate humorous verses describing the struggles of a giant with the giants of modern invention, such as steam rollers, bicycles, electric wires, torpedoes, motor cars, etc. The book seems intended for children, who will, however, miss many of its hits at the hobbies and isms of the day.

[1347]

The present edition (the 4th) has been revised, enlarged, and improved. It contains a dictionary of about 24,000 carefully arranged sentences, with code word and cipher to each; also, about 1300 code words and ciphers, against which further messages suited to each particular user of the code can be written in paper suitably adapted to writing with ink or pencil being used in printing this list. The aim of the author has been to render the work as comprehensive, correct, and complete as possible. Every care has been given in recompiling the code to satisfy the rules and requirements of the International Telegraphic Convention.

PICK-UPS.

Customer: I'm froze so, I want something exciting. Can you recommend anything? Bookseller: Yes, indeed, sir. Here's Phroso.—Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.

THE AMENITIES OF BOOKSELLING.—There is a bookseller in London who affixes maxims of his own to the piles of books displayed in his shop. Here is his latest deliverance: "One of the last things to dawn on you, but one of the first to dawn on your friends, is that you are a fool."

HE KNOWS THE DIFFERENCE.—Justin Huntly McCarthy, who has been lecturing in the States on Omar Khayyam, told a friend, the other day, that after a lecture in Brooklyn a member of the audience thanked him for his exposition, and added: "I never before knew the difference between Omar Khayyam and Hunyadi Janos."

HE KNEW HIS CALENDAR.—In a New York bookstore the young man who is supposed to keep the stock in order and dusted, was one morning asked by one of his superiors, in a rather superior manner, whether he ever paid any attention to a certain table on which was kept a collection of books on fish and fishing. "Oh yes, Mr. West," was the unhesitating reply, "I dust these every Friday."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 22, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION OF 1900.

It has become time when arrangements should be made for the representation of the American book trade at the great exposition to which Paris is to give itself over in 1900, planned to be the wonder of the world, and to excel even that at Chicago. We are glad to note the arrival of M. Terquem, who has become the tutelary genius of the American book trade with reference to book exhibits at Paris, and we commend him to the courtesy of the trade. It is, of course, not to be expected that pecuniary benefit, except in the most indirect degree, can accrue to American publishers from participation in this exhibition, held in a foreign country, and amidst foreign tongues; but it is desirable, as a matter of patriotism and international comity, that American publishers should be willing to put themselves to the small trouble and expense involved in participation.

The display of books at the exposition in Paris in 1889 was, on the whole, creditable to the American book trade, although unfortunately some of our leading houses were not represented. It is to be hoped, therefore, that this time there may be included all the leaders of the trade and a wide representation of the younger and smaller houses. The arrangements proposed by M. Terquem are such that publishers will have no concern as to their individual exhibits, except to see that they are properly started from this country; and the reasonable fee per running foot of space, which he proposes to charge, is to cover all expenses of shipping and returning as well as handling in Paris. M. Terquem's personal pecuniary return from this is practically nothing, as he gives himself to the work in connection with his agency in Paris for American and English producers, and in a liberal and patriotic spirit. We trust heartily that his efforts to obtain a creditable representation of America at Paris will be seconded by the willing co-operation of the American book trade.

CONGRESS OF FRENCH BOOKSELLERS.

In response to a circular issued by the Chambre syndicale des librairies de France, representatives of 135 firms of booksellers, met at the Cercle de la Librairie, at Paris, March 20 and 21. Felix Baranger of the Syndical Chamber acted as chairman.

The proceedings were begun by a report of M. Tallandier on raising the price of books in general literature. M. Tallandier suggested that the system applied to legal and medical works should be applied to books in general, and that everything appearing in numbers or parts, and all periodicals and newspapers, whether illustrated or not, and works published by subscription, should be sold at the published price without any discount.

Some very interesting remarks were exchanged as to this proposition, and several motions in favor of a return purely and simply to the sale at published prices were made. Ultimately M. Tallandier's recommendations were adopted almost unanimously, only three negative votes being given.

Then came the question of raising the price of volumes at 3fr. 50c., on which M. Taride reported, and which led to a very warm debate, but without any definite solution. On M. Taride's recommendation, a commission was nominated to arrange with the publishers that whatever the published price may hereafter be, whether 2fr. 75c. or 3fr., a discount of 25 per cent. must be reserved to booksellers. This motion was also carried with only three dissentients.

The third subject for consideration was: "The Book Trade for Booksellers," which has given rise to much controversy and discussion during recent years. M. Floury, the reporter, advised that the most urgent measures be taken to induce publishers to decide with the least possible delay to reserve the sale of books solely to booksellers, to the exclusion of all large bazaars, etc. This recommendation was adopted unanimously.

M. Quaré, of Lille, reporting on the fourth question—"Classics and Contracts"—recommended (1) that booksellers should personally endeavor to induce municipal bodies to separate in their contracts prize books, classical books, and class books; (2) that publishers be requested to take into consideration favored purchasers, such as teachers, and to take measures against booksellers who, when tendering for contracts, give exaggerated discounts. This was unanimously agreed to.

A. Roux stated the steps which had been taken at the Ministry of Public Works to obtain a reduction on rates of carriage by slow train as regards the book trade. It was decided to await the Minister's reply.

The conclusion of Ph. Arnauné's report on religious literature—to nominate a commission of five members to wait upon publishers of religious books, with a view to regulating the dealings between publishers and booksellers—was adopted.

After reading the report of M. Seyès it was unanimously resolved that the departments of the Seine, Seine and Marne, and Seine and Oise ought to re-enter into the common law in so far as concerns the application of the price for the sale of classical books.

There was a very lively debate on the regulations for the sale of prize books, on which subject M. Bousrez had rendered a substantial report, nearly all the members present taking part in the discussion. After presentation of several orders of the day, the following, drawn up by M. Venot, and amended by M. Milon, was adopted: "Prize books shall be assimilated with classical books, that is to say, a discount of twenty per cent. without the thirtieth."

A banquet took place on the evening of March 21 at the Restaurant Notta, the guests including nearly 200 members of the Congress. M. Baranger presided, supported by René Fouret, president of the Cercle de la Librairie, and Jules Hetzel, ex-president, and president of the Syndicate of Publishers.

NEW FACTS ABOUT SHAKESPEARE IN FOLIO.

SIDNEY LEE, now recognized as one of our chief authorities on Shakespearean literature, recently lectured at the Royal Institution on "Shakespeare in Folio." He began by saying that, if lovers of literature wished to consecrate a day to Shakespeare's memory, he would recommend them to choose November 8, when in 1623 the first folio was published, which revealed the full range of his genius. The scheme of publishing a collected edition of Shakespeare's plays was initiated seven years after his death by a printer, named William Jaggard, with offices in Fleet Street and the Barbican, who held the right of printing the playbills for the London theatres. To carry out the undertaking, Jaggard formed a small syndicate with his son Isaac, also a printer, three booksellers, and John Hemynge and Henry Condell, the two chief managers of the company of actors of which Shakespeare had been a member in his lifetime. These actor-managers were the owners of the manuscripts of Shakespeare's plays and brought out the first folio. The first folio was carelessly printed, and extant copies show many variations among themselves owing to the compositors' incapacity. The pagination is most irregular; but, in spite of all the mechanical defects, the first folio is the most valuable contribution to literature that ever issued from a printing office. It was difficult to estimate how many of the first folio survived, but about 200 had been traced during the present century, and of these less than twenty were perfect, with the portrait on the title-page and the lines by Ben Jonson on the flyleaf. The second folio appeared in 1632; the third, which included "Pericles," and six other plays attributed to Shakespeare, but certainly not by him, in 1663; and the fourth folio in 1685. The library of the London Institution contained copies of them all, and he hoped the proprietors would keep firm hold on them, as there was no doubt England was gradually being drained of its first folios by the United States. The difficulty could only be met by an improvement in public sentiment, and by entrusting the director of the British Museum with funds to compete with the American amateur when unique Shakespearean treasures came into the market.

Mr. Lee then went on to give a number of interesting particulars of different copies of the folios. He exhibited a copy of the first folio, which, as far as he knew, had hitherto escaped the notice of bibliographers, and now belongs to Coningsby Sibthorp, of Sudbrooke Holme, Lincoln. It was a taller copy than any other that had come to light, and the portrait on the title-page was of unexampled freshness and clearness. But its most remarkable feature was an inscription on the title-page, in a contemporary hand, the authenticity of which was unhesitatingly admitted by the expert authorities at the British Museum. This inscription attested that the copy was a presentation copy from the printer Jaggard. The arms stamped on the binding, fragments of which were in the original state, proved that Jaggard had given the book to Augustine Vincent, an officer of the Heralds' College. Independent evidence showed that Vincent and Jaggard were in friendly relations at the time. Both had been furiously denounced by Ralph Brooke, a colleague of Vincent at the College of Arms, who had also shown a certain hostility to Shakespeare, by asserting that the poet had no right to the coat-armor granted him by the Heralds' College in 1599. In 1622 Vincent had published and Jaggard had printed a book exposing Brooke's own ignorance, in which Jaggard had himself inserted a tirade against Brooke, who had ventured to question his (Jaggard's) competence as a printer. A year later, in 1623, Jaggard celebrated Brooke's discomfiture by presenting Vincent with an early impression of the first folio.

A copy of the second folio which Mr. Lee showed on this occasion, the property of Sir Henry Irving formerly belonged to Theobald, the commentator, and had afterwards passed to Dr. Johnson, and then to Samuel Ireland, whose name was remembered in connection with the Ireland forgeries.

Apropos of the foregoing a catalogue has just been issued in London by Robson & Co., of Coventry Street, which contains an entry rarely met with in these days—that of a copy of the first edition of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dreame," printed in 4to by James Roberts, 1600, and priced at £95. Several leaves are missing, but with this exception the book is wholly sound and complete. As a rule, books of this kind are sold privately and do not find their way into catalogues. During the last twelve years only four copies of "A Midsummer Night's Dreame" have been sold by auction in England, and the prices realized—ranging from £61 to £122—show a wonderful increase over those which once prevailed. It is a matter of mere antiquarian lore that in 1688 eleven early Shakespearean quartos were sold in one lot for 12s., but as late as 1812 we find a perfect "Midsummer Night's Dreame" bringing as little as £3 3s., and this at the sale of one of the most important libraries in England.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE belated announcement has just reached us of the death of Dr. Marcus Fayette Bridgman, at Boston, on January 20. Dr. Bridgman was the author of several volumes of verse, notably "Mosses," "Under the Pine," "Tales at the Manse," and "Mosaics." He was born at Windsor, Vt., March 11, 1824, and was graduated at Dartmouth College in 1847. He was one of the oldest members of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and practiced medicine in Boston for upwards of forty years.

MAJOR SIR ROSE LAMBERT PRICE, author and soldier, died at Pontyclun, in Wales, on the 17th inst. He was born at Trengwainton, in the County of Cornwall, July 26, 1837. He went to India during the Mutiny, and was in the storming party at the capture of Canton in 1857, and was also in the storming party at the Pei-Ho forts, and during this fight was shot through the leg. He was also present at the taking of Tangku, at the capture of the Taku forts, and at the surrender of Peking. He wrote a work entitled "The Two Americas—an account of sport and travel, with notes on men and manners in North and South America."

MRS. HELEN STEVENS CONANT, wife of Samuel Stillman Conant, at one time managing editor of Harper's Weekly, died at the Brooklyn [N. Y.] Homœopathic Hospital on the 17th inst. She was born at Methuen, Mass., in 1839. Her husband in 1885 disappeared mysteriously and has not been heard from since. During his life Mrs. Conant assisted him in his literary work, much of which she continued till her health began to fail. She wrote a book entitled "The Butterfly Hunters," which was published by Ticknor & Fields in 1868, and prepared for the Half-Hour Series a "Primer of German Literature" and a "Primer of Spanish Literature."

JOHN FERGUSON, a well-known journalist, and the author of a number of volumes chiefly of a psycho-physiological nature, died in London on the 3d inst. He was born in Lanarkshire, October 28, 1851, and was graduated from Glasgow University. He was for nearly twenty years a writer of special articles for the London Times; he also wrote extensively in the weekly and periodical press, notably for the Academy. He wrote for the Referee each week a philosophical and sociological article which he called "Our Handbook." His wider fame rests on his volume entitled "The Insanity of Genius." He left a work in manuscript which Grant Richards will shortly publish under the title of "The Human Machine: an Inquiry into the Divinity of Human Faculty in its Bearings upon Social Life, Religion, Education, and Politics."

WILLIAM ADEE TOWNSEND, for years a well-known figure in the book trade, died last month at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. He was born in New York in 1814, and started in business in 1837 by establishing the "Editors' Express," whose chief mission was to deliver by special messenger service to the editors of the New York daily newspapers the letters of their Washington correspondents one or two hours in advance of the regular mail delivery. In 1843 he became a member of the firm of Burgess, Stringer & Co., pioneer publishers of cheap editions of books, who were located on Ann Street, near Broadway, where they occupied one of the stores under Barnum's Museum. In 1848 Burgess retired from the partnership, and the firm-name became Stringer & Townsend. Two years later the new firm began publishing The International Magazine, one of the best periodicals of its day. It was edited by Rufus W. Griswold, who was assisted by Bayard Taylor, George William Curtis, and Cornelius Mathews. Though ably edited and supported by a brilliant staff of contributors, The International Magazine in time succumbed to the fierce competition of its rival, the New Monthly Magazine, which was established about one and a half years earlier than the International, by Harper & Brothers. Stringer & Townsend were among the first to make definite payments to English authors for advance sheets or manuscript of their works. In 1859-1860 the firm became W. A. Townsend & Co. The new firm devoted itself almost exclusively to publishing books that appealed to the eye as well as the intellect of the bookbuyer. Their editions of Cooper's works with the Darley plates, and their charming Household edition of Dickens' novels, are much sought after now and fetch high prices. The plates of the Household Dickens practically formed the nucleus of the publishing business of the firm of Hurd & Houghton. The plates of this edition went over from Townsend & Co. to John G. Gregory; when the latter became bankrupt Henry O. Houghton came into possession of the stock and plates. At first the edition was marketed through Sheldon & Co. Later Hurd & Houghton issued the edition under their own imprint. Townsend & Co. also engaged Henry Herbert to prepare the "Frank Forrester" books of field and forest, fish and fishing, and sports in general. In 1850 Stringer & Townsend became the American publishers of Braithwaite's Retrospect, a standard English medical periodical, and of "Epitome," also a medical classic. These two were retained by Mr. Townsend until 1883, when he retired from business. The Ann Street store of Stringer & Townsend was for many years the favorite resort of the book-lovers and society swells of half a century ago. For a time in the '70s Mr. Townsend was associated with the firm of W. A. Townsend & Adams, who did business at 434 Broome Street. Later he was president of the W. A. Townsend Publishing Company, at 153 Broadway.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JUSTIN M'CARTHY'S autobiography may be expected to appear early in May.

ARTHUR SYMONS will contribute an essay on Balzac to the May number of the Fortnightly Review, in connection with the Balzac centenary, which falls due in that month.

RUDYARD KIPLING has so far recovered from his recent severe illness that he left his hotel in New York for the Laurel House at Lakewood, N. J. He will remain there until he shall become sufficiently improved to take a longer journey.

MISS FIONA MACLEOD'S new book, "The Dominion of Dreams," will be published in London during the spring. It will be akin in nature to her "Washer of the Ford," and will be divided into three sections—tales, legendary and other, with a modern setting, narratives, mainly psychological, and tales with a Pagan or old Celtic setting.

FEW authors can claim so large an output as one hundred and twenty books—a small library in itself. Fewer still can boast of having restored a church, contributed $10,000 to a missionary college, and fitted out a missionary ship. This, however, is what Miss Charlotte Yonge is said by Black and White to have done. She is now, according to the same authority, in her seventy-sixth year, and lives in an ivy-clad mansion at Otterbourne, near Winchester, where she has spent the better part of her life.

ZOLA's new novel "Fécondité," or "Fruitfulness," as it will be called in English, is now finished. May 10 is the date fixed for its opening in the Paris Aurore, and October 1 for its appearance in volume form simultaneously in French, English, German, Danish, Norwegian, Italian, and Spanish. The novel is the first of a new series, which will continue with "Work," "Truth," and "Justice." M. Zola's aim in "Fécondité" is to bring before French parents, who need the lesson, the benefit of larger families.

THE trustees of Princeton University have received a letter from the Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke, of New York, accepting the English chair at the university. According to the tender of the place made to Dr. van Dyke, he is to suit his own convenience in assuming his duties. He is at present preparing a book on "The Knickerbockers," which is to be included in a series of studies of American letters edited for The Macmillan Company by Prof. G. E. Woodberry. Paul Leicester Ford is preparing for the same series a volume on "The American Historical Novel."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MISS MARY JOHNSTON, whose "Prisoners of Hope" had such an unusual and popular success during the last season, has written for The Atlantic Monthly a serial story of Virginian early colonial life.

The Inland Printer for April has an interesting article on Theodore L. De Vinne, the scholar printer, by W. Irving May. The Inland Printer is one of the very handsomest periodical publications in this country, and indeed in the world.

THE first number of a periodical entitled La Crème has been issued by Charles E. Brown & Co., of Boston. The initial number is an attractive little booklet, with a crimson cover and rubricated margins, containing Kipling's "My Lord the Elephant," the inside pages of the cover being occupied respectively by "The Recessional" and "The Vampire." Announcements for future numbers include "Firth Highland, Gentleman," by Gilbert Parker; "A Suit Decided," by Mrs. Burton Harrison; "The Hurricane Driver," by Mary Hartwell Catherwood; and "In Verona," by Laura E. Richards.

THE first number of Lady Randolph Churchill's quarterly magazine, The Anglo-Saxon, will be published in June by John Lane. A leading feature will be the publishing of letters and old documents from the collections of private papers which are found in many English country houses and family mansions, as well as in American and colonial homes. This department will be under the supervision of Arthur Strong, librarian of the House of Lords. The illustrations will be largely engraved portraits, photogravures and lithographs. This feature will be under the supervision of Lionel Cust, the director of the National Portrait Gallery. Special attention will be paid to the binding. Every quarter some famous historical or original binding design will be reproduced on the side covers of the review. This will be carried out under the direction of Mr. Cyril Davenport, of the department of historical bindings in the British Museum, who will write a note on the binding selected for each volume. The price of each number will be $6. A list of subscribers will be printed in each quarterly issue—a revival of an old custom that will unquestionably add to the attractiveness of this periodical in the eyes of many people.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

"A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ENGLISH MILITARY BOOKS UP TO 1642," by Captain Maurice Cockle, 4th Battalion Border Regiment, is about to be issued through the Chiswick Press.

THE sixty-second issue of "The English Catalogue of Books" dated 1898, published by Sampson Low, Marston & Co., has just reached us, the delay being explained by the fact that works issued by country and occasional publishers and for private circulation have been included. For the first time, a List of Publishers, with their addresses, has been added, which should prove of material advantage to those who use the catalogue. The catalogue is supplied in this country through the Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, either separately, bound in paper, or bound up with the "Annual American Catalogue," in half leather. (256 p. 8°.)

THE Austro-Hungarian Book-Trade Association (Verein der Oesterr.-Ungar. Buchhändler,) has begun the publication of the "Oesterreichische Bibliographie," edited by Carl Junker. The bibliography is to be issued weekly as a supplement to the Association's official organ, the Oesterreichisch-Ungarische Buchhändler-Correspondenz. This work will be welcomed by the book trade as well as by the librarian and scholar, inasmuch as Austria has been but inadequately provided with a national bibliography since Dr. Wurzbach was obliged in 1859 to discontinue his excellent work. The Austro-Hungarian Book-Trade Association since its organization, in 1859, has attempted in a limited way to provide its members with information concerning the output of German and Czech and Slavonian literature. But this information was necessarily meagre, and accessible as a rule only to the members of the Association. At last the demand even from the book trade for a more comprehensive bibliography became so strong that the Association has undertaken the work tentatively and only for the output of German literature, including periodicals. If the necessary support can be secured it is proposed to include the Czech and Slavonian, the Ruthenian, Slovenian, Italian Polish, Hungarian, Roumanian, and the Serbo-Croatic literatures, also prints and music. The bibliography is divided as follows: (1) Books and pamphlets, a, complete books, b, first parts of subscription books or first volumes of continuations, etc.; (2) Periodica, a, annuals, calendars, etc., b, periodicals; and (3) Maps, charts, etc. The arrangement is under publishers, according to the alphabet, but the titles are, strangely enough, not arranged alphabetically. In fact the arrangement seems to be peculiar to itself, and decidedly inconvenient for reference in the absence of a complete and thorough index. The titles are conspicuously and continuously numbered, and are also supplied with decimal numbers according to the Dewey system. If the demand should warrant it the bibliography will also be issued printed on one side of the sheet only, so that the titles may be utilized by librarians as accession slips for their card catalogues. It is sincerely to be hoped that the experiment—for such it is for the present—will be successful and that the work may grow in extent and therefore in usefulness. (8°, 6 marks a year.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—John W. Cadby, 131 Eagle St., Albany, N. Y., Miscellaneous, including a collection of first editions. (No. 38, 637 titles.)—Francis P. Harper, 17 E. 16th St., N. Y., Clearance catalogue of fine and rare books. (705 titles.)—Martinus Nijhoff, The Hague, Holland, Periodicals, standard works, scarce and valuable works of the last four centuries. (Pt. 3, No. 293, 1036-1536 titles.)—C. J. Price, 1004 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Choice English and French books. (4 p. 8°.)—Thos. J. Taylor, Taunton, Mass., Books, etc., relating to localities in America. (No. 71, 874-1167 titles;) also, Early school-books. (No. 72, 1168-1365 titles.)—James Thornton, 33 High St., Oxford, England, Miscellaneous. (No. 4, 712 titles.)—v. Zahn & Jaensch, Waisenhaus str., 10, Dresden, Saxony, Bibliotheca evangelico-theologica, IX. (No. 100, 1308 titles;) also, Bibliotheca theologica, X. (No. 101, 1028 titles;) also, Chemie, reine u. angewandte chemie, pharmacie, agricultur chemie, etc. (No. 104, 1128 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

It is announced that Lew Wallace has consented to have "Ben Hur" dramatized under the supervision of Klaw & Erlanger.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have nearly ready "Geschichten und Märchen," a very easy little collection of stories for young children beginning German, prepared by Lillian Foster, late instructor in German in the Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE UNITED BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Dayton, O., will have ready about May 1 a book on "Heaven," by Bishop I. Weaver, which will have many illustrations. With all advance orders on this book will be sent free and prepaid the little booklet entitled "Valley of Affliction Brightened."

JAMES POTT & Co. have in press "The Old Testament from the Modern Point of View," by Rev. L. W. Batten, of the Philadelphia Divinity School, containing a chapter entitled "General Arguments against the Validity of Critical Results;" also, "The Life of James De Koven," late warden of Racine College, by Rev. William C. Pope.

R. F. FENNO & Co. will publish shortly the first book of a series of "Captain Kettle Stories," by Cutcliffe Hyne; "Voyage of the Pulo Way," by Carlton Dawe; and "Martyrs of Empire," by Herbert C. McIlvaine. They are also bringing out new issues of Mallock's "Poverty and Progress;" "Social Equality;" "Romance of the Nineteenth Century;" and "Is Life Worth Living?"

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have for sale an album of photographs, collected during the past thirty-five years by the late William W. Howe. The collection is a unique one, and consists chiefly of old Brady photographs of the prominent men in the United States, in all walks of life. Many of the photographs in the collection are without duplicates in existence, and it is believed that it would be quite impossible to find a second album with such contents.

A BOOK-THIEF, with a hobby for literature relating to Napoleon, has been worrying the booksellers of Kansas City. H. T. Wright, a salesman in a Main Street bookstore, has the same hobby, and has thus come in special contact with the inquirer for Napoleonic books. Recently he missed Montholon's "Life of Napoleon," in four volumes, valued at $40, and a volume of "Secret Memoirs of Napoleon," worth $7.50, and called in the police, but the offender is still abroad, and the books have not yet been traced.

DREXEL BIDDLE, Philadelphia, will issue at once Clark Russell's new novel, "An Atlantic Tragedy," with six full-page illustrations by the marine artist, C. W. Snyder. An edition of W. E. Morris' "Giles Ingilby," illustrated by Spence, is also nearly ready, which will no doubt increase the great success of the large first edition. "Word for Word and Letter for Letter," a biographical romance of the Madeira Islands, is now in its sixth edition, and a new edition of A. J. Drexel Biddle's "Madeira Islands" is also in preparation.

G. W. DILLINGHAM Co. announce for publication in May "Gettysburg, Then and Now," by J. M. Vanderslice, a director and historian of the Gettysburg Memorial Association. It is a compact history of the battle, of when and how the regiments fought, and the troops they encountered, giving the losses sustained by every regiment, Union and Confederate. The work is illustrated by 125 full-page illustrations of the battlefield and of the handsomest monuments of the various regiments as they stand to-day. The work will be sold by subscription.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have nearly ready a volume of short stories by Mrs. Ballington Booth, entitled "Sleepy-Time Stories." Although intended primarily for children the book has much in it that cannot fail to interest adults, if merely from the point of view of style. Mrs. Booth is well known as the wife of the Commander of the American Volunteers. They will issue shortly a "History of American Coinage," by E. K. Watson, sometime District Attorney at Columbus, O., a member of Congress, and a commissioner appointed by President McKinley to codify the criminal laws.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Annual Literary Index, 1898

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc.; with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology, and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books, published each year, by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published during the year of its issue; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies; (5) authors deceased; (6) dates of principal events during the year. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.
